

SHOW MRS. EATON IS VERY JEALOUS

Young Women Deny That Admiral Ever Tried to Flirt With Them.

ALWAYS PERFECT GENTLEMAN

Dr. Fraime, Who Attended Him, Was Very Much Surprised at His Death.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Plymouth, Mass., October 18.—The State today introduced testimony in the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton for the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, in support of the prosecution's contention that Mrs. Eaton's jealousy of her husband formed the chief motive for the crime.
The testimony was offered by Miss Grace Burnham Howard of New Bedford, Mass., a young woman who was for many years a neighbor of the Eatons at Aspinneet, and Miss Bessie H. Callamore, of North Hampton, Mass., who was also a neighbor of the admiral's family.
Deaf Admiral Flirted.
Miss Howard testified in a letter written to her by Mrs. Eaton, in which the writer asked Miss Howard to write a letter saying that Admiral Eaton had flirted with her (Miss Howard) during church services. The letter was dated August 1, 1909. The witness testified that the admiral had never written to her or flirted with her in any way, but, on the contrary, had always been a perfect gentleman.
Miss Callamore testified that Mrs. Eaton had asked her to write a letter to the admiral, saying that she knew he never tried to flirt with her or any one else.
Dr. Joseph G. Fraime, who attended Admiral Eaton during his last illness, testified that he was summoned to the Eaton home on March 7, and when he arrived there he found the admiral suffering, "excruciating pain." The witness said the admiral explained that he had eaten too freely of fresh pork the night before, and the admiral said: "No more fresh pork for Joseph."
Dr. Fraime said Mrs. Eaton telephoned him at 10:30 the next morning and said her husband was dead; she seemed uncertain as to the exact time death occurred, but finally placed it at 5 o'clock. "I could not understand why the admiral should have died, for when I saw him the day before he did not appear to be dangerously ill."

HOW TO BUILD UP THE COMMONWEALTH

Paper by Robert S. Barrett, Editor of the Alexandria Gazette, That Won Third Prize in the State Press Competition.

The following article was written by Robert S. Barrett, editor of the Alexandria Gazette, and won the third prize of $25 in gold offered by Colonel John Murphy for the best suggestions on how to advance the interests of Virginia.

Few States have the foundation upon which to build a more glorious future than has Virginia. Here all factors needed for human happiness and the development of character can be found—an ideal geographical situation, an admirable climate, a great store of natural resources, a fertile soil, capable of producing everything needed for man and beast—and that even more important for the future, a race of men and women whose blood, history and ideals fit them for the highest development.

When a survey of the elements needed for the upbuilding of the Commonwealth is made, the improvement of the transportation facilities is easily seen to be the most important and the direction of a great work for the newspapers of the State. Railway and steamship lines need capital with which to extend their facilities and provide sufficient equipment to care for their constantly growing traffic. Capital must receive a fair return on its investment, and, at the same time, the carriers owe to the people of the Commonwealth certain duties which must be met. The advocacy of a program of broad and liberal treatment for the transportation lines will encourage them to improve their facilities, but with this must come the requirement that the laws and regulations of the State be strictly complied with.

The improvement of the public roads of the State rank among the first of its needs. No effort should be spared until Virginia is covered with a vast network of modern highways so that families can be brought closer to their neighbors, villages nearer to their county seats, county seats in closer proximity to their towns, towns within a few hours of the cities and the State joined by many additional roads with its sister States. The doctrine of good roads, already widely disseminated through the State, should be preached until there is not a person within its boundaries who is not convinced that good roads means prosperity and progress.

With improved transportation facilities, the upbuilding of the Commonwealth broadens into two principal avenues—the development of the country and farming districts and the development of the towns and cities. Of the two the first will appeal as most important to those who believe in the prosperity of the country depends largely upon the farmer and see in Virginia an opportunity for the development of the ideal rural life which has been responsible for so many great leaders in our national history. It must be apparent to all that there is no greater factor for prosperity than good crops, and there is no surer method of increasing the wealth and well-being of the Commonwealth than by increasing the yield of our products. Farm life in Virginia should be made more profitable by giving the farmer and girls living in the country greater opportunities to educate themselves along practical lines by increasing the facilities of the county or district high schools, so that agricultural, mechanical and domestic science courses may be important factors where the hand may be taught in conjunction with the brain; where efficiency will be regarded as the cardinal virtue. Larger appropriations for the rural high schools should be urged by the newspapers of the State.

To keep the boys and girls on the farms drudgery must be removed from farm life, and here another opportunity presents itself. The doctrine of labor-saving machinery for the farm wife in the dairy, her kitchen and her household should be preached, as well as for the farmer, who already is becoming more and more educated to the need of the latest improved reapers, binders, drills and spreaders. The removing of idleness from the country must make people more contented to live in rural districts. Good roads, bringing communities in closer touch with one another and making possible an interchange of social life, will make living conditions on the farm more acceptable.

The development of the towns and cities of the State will naturally follow the prosperity of the rural districts, but it is easily seen that upon the newspapers of the State must depend much of their progress. Efficiency in municipal affairs must be the watchword; an efficient city government, in place of the cumbersome councils which drag the administration work in many towns and cities; efficient schools, where boys and girls may be prepared for the struggle of life; efficient publicity so that the advantages of each community may be widely advertised, and men and capital brought to assist in its development.

There are many other factors that are needed in the upbuilding of the Commonwealth. Perhaps of all things the most important to do at once is a revision of the tax laws of the State, which are at present antiquated and unjust. This is a problem that de-

CRAIG IS ACTUALLY WORKING ROADS

Governor of North Carolina Orders Overalls for His Two Days of Labor

RECEIVES NO APPLICATIONS

Expects Soon to Appoint Members of Freight Rate Commission.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
Raleigh, N. C., October 18.—Many inquiries have come to Governor Craig during the past few days as to whether or not he will actually go out on the public roads on North Carolina Good Roads Day, November 5 and 6, and do personal work on the roads. He says it is certainly his intention to do so. Already special overalls and other paraphernalia have been ordered for him to use, and it is his purpose to put in "two good days' work, either in the Raleigh or the Asheville sections, and he is confidently expecting that the people generally will turn out for road work.

Governor Craig said this morning that he is not receiving any applications, directly or indirectly, for appointment on the special freight rate commission, that will have to appoint when the railroad companies present their petition alleging that the rates prescribed in the Justice Interstate act are confiscatory and unreasonable. The fact is that the Governor received a couple of applications directly and indirectly, and then, seeing that he was likely to be flooded and annoyed by applications, he passed word down the line that the fact that a man applied directly or indirectly for an appointment would not in the least help his chances. The Governor has determined to select the fairest and most impartial commission that it is possible to get together in the State. Men with extreme views either way on these rate questions will stand poor show for appointment.

The Governor does not believe that the railroad companies will wait any longer for the full sixty days from the date of ratification of the act of October 13, to file whatever exceptions they contemplate. He is anxious for the issues to be raised, and the commission appointed and started to work just as speedily as possible in order that the application of rates finally agreed upon may be made with the least possible delay.

Two charters were issued today as follows: The Price Real Estate and Insurance Co., of Washington, D. C., authorized $100,000 subscribed by J. L. Price and others, for real estate and insurance business; the Bunn Banking Co., of Bunn, N. C., capital $50,000 authorized, and $10,000 subscribed by J. H. Wynn and others, for banking and savings business.

The members of the North Carolina Corporation Commission will go to Washington October 28, 29 and 30 to attend the annual convention of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners in session at the national capital at that time. Chief Clerk A. J. Maxwell, of the commission, will also attend the convention.

Political talk hereabouts is swinging all sorts of angles. One of the latest phases being expression of the view that former Governor R. D. Chatham will be in the race for the United States senatorship against Senator Overman, instead of going to the Interstate Commerce Commission through appointment by President Wilson, also that President Wilson will finally select Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the Supreme Court of the State, for chairman of the Interstate Commission, this appointment to be to the end that there may be a really vigorous movement for reforming the railroad business in this country.

The remains of W. A. Johnson will arrive here Sunday from Washington, where he died last night. He had been for many years a resident of Raleigh, as private secretary to Colonel W. A. Tuck, general passenger agent of the Southern. He leaves a widow and four children. Mrs. Johnson was Miss Elizabeth Hicks, daughter of the late Colonel W. J. Hicks.

Logan Meadows and James Fillmore, trusty long term convicts at the State Farm, made their escape last evening. Meadows is a white man from Person County, serving three years for second degree murder. Fillmore is a Person County negro, serving ten years for burglary.

COUNCIL VOTES TO GRANT FRANCHISE

Williamsburg, Va., October 18.—The Williamsburg City Council, with all members present, held a special meeting last night for the purpose of re-considering its refusal to grant a franchise for an electric light plant. Just a week prior to last night's meeting the Council refused to grant a franchise to the public, which freely criticized the action of the Council. The result of last night's meeting was a favorable vote, 4-3, in favor of granting the franchise. The Council adopted a resolution introduced by Councilman Spencer favoring the granting of an electric light franchise and providing for the employment of a competent attorney to represent the city in the matter. A Baltimore firm is using to secure an electric light franchise for this city. It proposes also to operate an ice factory and laundry in connection with the heat and power plant.

Following the meeting of the City Council last night, the Williamsburg Business Association held a well attended meeting in regard to granting a franchise of an electric light plant. The regular election of officers of the Business Association was held, the present officers being as follows: President, W. A. Royster, H. C. Bennett and E. R. Jones, vice-presidents; J. S. Charles, secretary; and S. L. Grantham, treasurer. The association adopted a resolution providing for the issuance of advertising matter to the newspapers of this section of Virginia.

Farmville, Va., October 18.—A beautiful event of Saturday night, Oct. 18, was given by Mrs. Lewis Pullett and Miss Virginia Pullett in honor of Miss Mattie Bugg, one of the most popular of the season's approaching brides. Miss Mattie Bugg was the most successful in this contest, and given the prize, a brass candlestick, which she presented to Miss Bugg.

At the conclusion of the contest the guests followed the hostess into the hall, where were displayed most attractively many pieces of linen and china. A delightful salad course was served.

The guests included Misses Janet Duval, Virginia and Lillian Bugg, Grace and Lockett Walton, Mary Pare Irving, Molly Beyerly, Minnie and Edna Blanton, Virginia Bugg, Sue Gray Pippet, Alice Burgess, Mrs. Charles Craig, Mrs. Vernon Pullett, Mrs. William Gills, Mrs. Frank McIntosh, Mrs. Frank Grayson Baldwin, Mrs. Fred Hanbury and Mrs. James Luckin Bugg.

Eczema Is Only Skin Deep

Proven by D. D. D.

A few skin troubles originate in the blood. But very few. Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health and a famous authority on medical subjects, says: "We shall begin to make headway with skin disease when we learn two things: first that skin disease does not come from impure blood; second, that so-called blood purifiers have no such effect."

Get busy then and clear up your skin. Stop that itching and burning. Drive out those pimples. Make up your mind to start now and give yourself a smooth, velvet complexion.

You can do it with the aid of the wonderful D. D. D. prescription—a cooling, refracting lotion, a salve or grease—it soothes your tender skin, opens the pores, drives out the old impurities and gives you a skin like a baby, smooth and clear.

All druggists have D. D. D. We sell it in bottles and boxes. Don't risk a cent. Don't wait another day. Call at our store today. Ask also about D. D. D. Soap—best for tender skin.

serves the most serious consideration of our people and a State convention for the purpose of revising our methods of taxation should be urged. These are some of the things destined to bring Virginia into its own. But never should be forgotten the traditions of the past; never for a second should be overlooked that the growth of the Commonwealth depends upon the high ideals and Christian character of its men and women, and the constant reiteration of these principles by the press of Virginia, teaching obedience to the laws of God and the State, the condemnation of all that is shady and untrue, must do more than anything else to build up the Commonwealth.
